

---

parents continue to dream of one day returning “home.” Yet as indicated by their steadily increasing numbers, many Mexican migrants end up putting down roots here, often for the simple reason that their offspring are Americans—socially and culturally, if not always legally. Nevert

